New York, March R.—R. G. Dun's to morrow will say:

"Husiness activity is steadily maintained and in some lines shows an increase although sentiment continues to be conservative especially as regards speculatly to the specially as regards speculative transactions. The international money markets are slightly easier, as the outlook for peace in the Balkans has improved and the German position has been strengthened in the United States. Weather conditions are responsible for some decrease in activity in the shock trade, but, on the whole recommendations of gold drawn in part from the United States. Weather conditions are responsible for some decrease in activity in the shock trade, but, on the whole retail distribution is large and the spring outlook is favorable, and even the spring approaches and dependent transactions the benefit while there has been in expansion in actual sales of pig from specifications in finished lines are of record-breaking volume. The textile industries and dry goods distributing trades are in a wholesome condition, although merchants are not overstocking. While there has been some shading of the price of wool, the woolen and worsted mills are exceedingly well employed. Prices of cotton and the leading grains tend downard, but there is little speculation. Reports from the invited states are for the most part satisfactory. The labor situation has improved, as the clothing strike is gradually being settled, and arbitration proceedings in the railroad firement's dispute have begun. Hank clearings this week increased 15 per cent over last year, and railroad earnings during the first week of March showed a gain of 7.7 per cent, as compared with 1912.

Copper stocks were quietly firm, and Liggett & Myers rose 4 3-4 points, a tardy appreciation of the excellent statement recently issend by the company. New York, New Haven and Hartford dropped to 188 3-4 on the publication of an article, believed to be inspired from official sources, that the old-fashioned 8 per cent rate of dividends would ultimately be abandoned.

Private advices from Berlin point out that the liquidation in American stocks has culminated. The firmness of Canadian Pacific in this market of Canadian Pacific in this market of Canadian Pacific in this market may be considered as indicating that the next activity will be on account of the recent break in the price of foreign exchange.

It is the opinion among the bankers that next week will probably see the end of the present gold movement to Europe. Some further shipments may be made, but by the middle of the week Germany will have finished her arrangements here for procuring funds for the April disbursements.

Dullness and firmness in the stock market may be considered as indicating that the next activity will be on

WEEKLY COTTON REVIEW

New York, March 14.—Reports that heavy rains were delaying crop preparations and rather a better spot demand from exporters checked the decline in cotton early in the week, and caused railies of about twenty points. Arbitrage houses and trade interests acontinued buyers on the advance, but there was little indication of broadening speculative interest and after a considerable reduction in Wall Street or scattering short accounts the market showed renewed hesitation, owing to prospects for clearing weather in the belt, bearish week-end figures and claims that March export engagements were not heavy enough to make any lasting impression on prices. The stormy weather South did not appear to have created any real apprehension as to the new crop outlook, although it emphasized the fact that a favorable start is dependent upon weather conditions during the next two months. Last year wet weather in March attracted considerable attention, as little preliminary farm work had been accomplished. This season, however, preparations were reported well advanced before the recent rains, and sellers have expressed confidence that a few days of good wather would find the trade quite as optimistic over the prospect as previously, Meanwhile, rather a more favorable opinion has developed regarding political conditions abroad, and expectations of ultimately strong statistics have been fostered by reports that a leading English authority has slightly increased his estimate of the world's actual consumption of American, piacing it at, 14,750,000, compared with private ginning figures, suggesting a total growth of about 14,000,000 hales. Of course, it is argued that the surplus from the 18,000,000-bale crop will provide this apparent discrepancy, and many bearish expressions of opinion were still circulating here towards the end of the week, even though the action of prices had suggested the market's susceptibility to any hint of unfavorable new crop developments.
